DEPUTY DIRECTOR (CA).
SCHEME OF DISTRICT CONSUMER INFORMATION CENTRES
Guidelines on Functioning and Utilization of Funds

INTRODUCTION

Despite the enactment of the Consumer Protection Act, 1986, awareness among a large section of needy people regarding the rights of the consumers and how to exercise those rights etc., still remains very weak due to inadequate spread of knowledge / information. To spread this awareness, the Government of India created Consumer Welfare Fund in the year 1992, to promote and protect consumer welfare by amending the Central Excise and Salt Act, 1944, wherein, money refundable to manufacturers which could not be refunded due to lack of identity is being credited. Similarly, the Consumer Affairs, Food & Civil Supplies Department of the Government of Andhra Pradesh has also established A.P. State Consumer Welfare Fund by mobilizing resources through budgetary and voluntary support.

The Department of Consumer Affairs, Government of India had felt that unless each district in the country have at least one consumer information centre geared to meet the consumer requirements for awareness generation, consumer protection related activities would continue to have negligible impact on the ground. Accordingly, the scheme of establishing District Consumer Information Centers is designed for implementation in the State of Andhra Pradesh.

AIM

The main aim of setting up of a District Consumer Information Centre is to spread consumerism and to lead the consumer movement with the participation of people of all sectors spread over in the district.

OBJECTIVES

To achieve the aim in setting up of District Consumer Information Centre, they should work with the following objectives:

- To bring about desired changes in the consumer for self realization.
- To provide assistance to consumers to solve problems through an intimate personal relationship.
- To initialize consumers to establish their rights.
- To motivate consumers to realize their responsibilities.
- To organize consumers to fight against unfair trade practices
- To spread the spirit of consumerism
- To protect the interests of consumers of different sectors and region.

FOCUS

Main focus of District Consumer Information Centre is laid on educating the consumers on their responsibilities and encouraging them:

- To be alert and question about defective goods and deficiencies in services;
- To conduct the quality tests of the products offered for sale;
- To search for adequate information on labels;
- To enable the consumers to exercise their choice by comparison;
- To promote the consumers to furnish information on various products / services and its compliance, guarantee and warranty;
- To revolt against the misleading advertisements and take corrective steps;
- To join and act together to strengthen consumer movement.

LOCATION

It is felt that the Panchayat Raj Institutions should be actively involved in implementing the scheme of District Consumer Information Centre.

Therefore, the District Consumer Information Centre is preferred to be set up in Zilla Parishad Office at the District Headquarter. If there is any problem of space or accessibility to set up District Consumer Information Centre in Zilla Parishad, the DCIC may be set up in Collectorate Complex or the building complex of District Consumer Forums, wherever suitable accommodation can be arranged.
